Boundaries Commission Members

- Andrew Richardson, Chair is an ordained minister from Summerside, PEI., known for his ability to lead groups to consensus and to consider the theological questions of any issue.
- Lorraine Stewart is an educator, a psychologist and a lay member of Stony Plain United Church in Alberta. She brings expertise in listening, communicating, and establishing effective guidelines and policies.
- Mark Laird serves Drayton United Church in Hamilton Conference. Mark notes that his training for diaconal ministry helps him think about who isn't being represented in different situations.
- Janet Sigurdson is an ordained minister with All Native Circle Conference, a member of the Aboriginal Ministries Council and a member of the Peepeekisis First Nation in Saskatchewan.
- Ryan McNally served as the chair of the Presbytery Boundaries Review Commission for the Bay of Quinte Conference and is a minister in the Bay of Quinte Conference.
- Nicole Beaudry co-chairs the regional Table de concertation for Ministries in French in Synode M&O Conference. She wants to bridge the divide between anglophones and francophones in our church.
- Gord Waldie has served on the Executives of two Conferences and is on the team that is finding ways to share Executive Secretary services across the three prairie provinces. He is an ordained minister living in Grande Prairie, Alberta.
- Sarah Jane Wetelainen, who identifies as Métis, is an active lay member of Burton Avenue United Church in Barrie, Ontario, known for her work on local, national, and international projects. "I like displaying radical kindness, Jesus-style, in my everyday life."
- Marion Pardy, our church's 37th Moderator, is committed to effective ministry of administration and leadership through the theology and values of the church. She is rooted in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador.
